Live Music in the Garden: Summer Concerts Continue at Green Bay Botanical Garden

Sanimax Concerts and Employment Resource Group Grand Concerts Highlight a Variety of Music Genres This Summer

(GREEN BAY, WI) (July 7, 2025) — Enjoy tunes and blooms with the beautiful backdrop of Green Bay Botanical Garden this summer!

Experience live music, take in the sights of the stunning Schneider Family Grand Garden, and even explore the new Washed Ashore: Art the Save the Sea exhibit, presented by Dar Stumpf & Clyde Reed, through September 2. Featuring nine spectacular sculptures created with plastic debris from the Pacific Ocean, it tells the story of plastic pollution and how we can preserve the waterways that many animals call home.

Beverages and light snacks will be available to purchase in the Garden's Concessions Building during our evening concerts, including the option to order a boxed dinner from a local vendor ahead of time to pick up the night of the concert. Guests are also encouraged to bring their own picnic (no alcohol carry-ins allowed), and guests can enjoy a Seeds to Snacks activity before Sanimax Concerts.

To make your experience more enjoyable, advance tickets are recommended for all concerts.

Garden members can enjoy free at-the-door admission for the Thursday Sanimax Concert Series (Select Thursdays through August 21). The general public can purchase advance tickets or at-the-door tickets the evening of the concert, based on availability. The Employment Resource Group Grand Concert Series is open to Garden members and the general public, with three more concerts through September.

For more details, including how to purchase tickets, order a boxed dinner, or sign up to volunteer, visit GBBG.org/Concerts.
