Sound Healing is one of the oldest forms of medicine in human history. Treatment by sound waves is believed to restore healthy balance to the mind and body. Learn about the transformational power of Energy Sound Healing to reduce chronic stress with Sound Therapy Practitioner Michelle Poole. Michelle will explain the fundamentals, demonstrating the actual techniques used with volunteers during the event.

RSVP required. Seating is limited to 15 adults per date. Reservations taken on a first come, first served basis. Call 920-301-4200 or email greenbaysales@oakparkplace.com.

If you would like to volunteer to receive a free session during one of the demonstrations, please inquire at time of RSVP.

Michelle Poole
As a Sound Therapy Practitioner, not only have I experienced the benefits myself, my friends and family have also. With my client base, I have worked with people with high anxiety, grief, depression, addiction, thoughts of self-harm, and many others. Energy Sound Healing is an effective tool to assist people in lifting the negative emotions that keep us stuck and can, and oftentimes do, affect us on a physical level.
