Prevea Welcomes Dr. Erin E. Stevens
Gynecologic oncologist now seeing patients at HSHS St. Vincent Hospital

Green Bay – Prevea Health is pleased to welcome Erin E. Stevens, MD, FACOG, a board-certified and fellowship-trained gynecologic oncologist now seeing patients at HSHS St. Vincent Hospital in Green Bay.

As a gynecologic oncologist, Dr. Stevens specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of:
- Known or suspected gynecologic cancers, including cervical, endometrial, ovarian, vaginal and vulvar, as well as gestational trophoblastic disease
- Abnormal uterine bleeding
- Vulvar irritations or lesions
- Ovary, fallopian tube or pelvic masses
- Abnormal pap smears or cervical lesions requiring additional examination
- Gynecologic cancers that have recurred or returned

“I am often the first person a patient will meet after a diagnosis or suspicion of a gynecologic cancer,” said Dr. Stevens. “My role includes leading the surgical team and assisting in treatment planning and surveillance, while comforting the patient at one of the most stressful times of her life. I believe in comprehensive, personalized care for each patient.”

Dr. Stevens works closely with HSHS St. Vincent Hospital Cancer Centers which offers patients nurse navigation, dietitian, genetic counseling and survivorship services, as well as access to clinical trials.

After graduating medical school at New York Medical College, Dr. Stevens completed obstetrics and gynecology residency at Stony Brook University Medical Center and a gynecology oncology fellowship at SUNY Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, New York. She is certified by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology in both Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Gynecologic Oncology.
