NORTH SHORE BANK “BANK ON KINDNESS” RAISES OVER $23K TO ASSIST
WISCONSIN FOOD PANTRIES IN NEED AMID PANDEMIC

$5,335 to be donated directly to Paul’s Pantry and St. Joseph’s Food Program to support local families

Green Bay, Wis. – North Shore Bank today announced that the community bank’s February community give-back program “Bank on Kindness,” along with its annual Race for the Hungry, raised a total of $23,417 to support local efforts of Wisconsin non-profit hunger relief organizations. From Feb. 1 to Feb. 28, the public donated to the local food pantries of their choice through the Bank on Kindness community-focused website created by North Shore Bank. The public contributed $17,236, with an additional $4,500 being matched by North Shore Bank and $1,681 being raised during Race for the Hungry.

Paul’s Pantry received $3,025 in contributions through the program. St. Joseph’s Food Program received $2,310, including the $625 raised through Race for the Hungry. The following food pantries across Wisconsin shared in contributions through North Shore Bank’s February Bank on Kindness program:

- Milwaukee Christian Center in Milwaukee, Wis.
- Hunger Task Force in Milwaukee, Wis.
- Food Pantry of Waukesha County in Waukesha, Wis.
- Shalom Center of Interfaith Network in Kenosha, Wis.
- Racine County Food Bank in Racine, Wis.
- Family Sharing of Ozaukee County in Grafton, Wis.
- Sussex Outreach Services in Sussex, Wis.
- Paul’s Pantry in Green Bay, Wis.
- St. Joseph’s Food Program, Inc. in Menasha, Wis.

“First and foremost, we want to thank our community members for rallying together for our local neighborhood food pantries. We’re thrilled that together we were able to fundraise almost $22,000 for food banks across the state in just one month,” said Susan Doyle, senior vice president of retail banking at North Shore Bank. “We look forward to announcing future non-profit partners and hope our Bank on Kindness efforts can further help those who are struggling with needs in our community.”
